

U.S. Aiming To Break Up GE Monopoly

NEW YORK (AP) — Government trustbusters are weighing the possibility of court action to break up General Electric Co., the world's biggest electrical goods maker, the firm said Monday.

The possibility was raised in negotiations over a consent decree the government has proposed to settle a price-fixing, bid rigging conspiracy in the electrical equipment field, a company spokesman said.

General Electric has balked at signing.

No Threats
In Washington, D.C., Loevinger was quoted as saying he has made "threats" to no one.

The Pittsburgh (Pa.) Eagle quoted him as describing any threats of divestiture as "pure fiction. This report is purely imaginary and concocted out of scraps and bits of other things."

Possible court action also was reported by The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal.

He attributed to Asst. Atty. Gen. Les Loevinger, government.

The conspiracy case resulted four months ago in convictions of GE and 28 other firms, together with 45 individual defendants. Its reverberations spread throughout the business world.

Thursday has been set as a deadline for GE to sign the decree which its chairman, Ralph J. Cordiner, has called unfavorable. The government rejected a counter proposal.

If it materializes, the divestiture suit would be precedent-setting, attorneys said, in a price fixing case.

The Wall Street Journal, reporting on the court development, speculated that the possible litigation might be only a "bargaining

Americans May Save Less In '61

POCONO MANOR — M. L. Dye, vice president of the U.S. Savings and Loan League, said Monday that Americans may save less and spend more in the last half of the year than they did in the first half.

Dye, of Slat Lake City, Utah, told the Managers Conference of the Pennsylvania Savings and Loan League.

"Industrial production is rising, consumer buying is up and employment is rising as we near mid-1961, these factors are generating... optimism and may mean that consumers will step up spending and the rate of personal savings will taper off in the period just ahead."

William J. McKeever of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania organization, said total assets of savings and loan associations in Pennsylvania have passed the $1 billion mark. He said that this year should be one of the best for the savings and loan business in Pennsylvania.

Robert L. Myers, Jr., state banking secretary, told the conference there is a need for relatively equal powers for state and federal systems if "the dual system of the savings and loan business and its demonstrated benefits to our nation's economy" are to endure.

New Disputes Mar Laos Talks

Kennedy Says He's Feeling Much Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy hauled himself into the White House on crutches Monday but said he felt much better after Florida rest treatment for his injured back.

He was described as making definite progress and his physician, Dr. Janet Travell, said through a spokesman that she is satisfied with the way he is coming along.

The limping President obviously favored his left leg—keeping it off the ground—as he pushed himself by crutches to the executive mansion from a helicopter landing on the lawn shortly after noon.

Sparing his strained back, Kennedy remained in the White House proper for the remainder of the day instead of undertaking the walk to his office in the west wing where he ordinarily spends his working hours.

While Kennedy avoided any needless movement, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen the President definitely is progressing.

"He is experiencing some discomfort but told me he was much improved," Salinger said.

Salinger added that the discomfort was less acute than it had been and that Dr. Travell hoped for "significant improvement" by the end of the week.

Asked why the President kept pressure off his left leg, Salinger said this simply was the way he preferred to walk while trying to move on crutches.

20 Aboard Dutch Liner Die In Crash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A propeller Electra of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines smashed into desert dunes and burned on its approach to Cairo shortly before dawn Monday. Twenty of the 36 persons aboard perished. Wreckage scattered nearly half a mile.

Scattered across the sands was a $500,000 gold shipment—239 ingots—and 2,500 Swiss watches bound for Burma and Thailand. Most of the gold and watches were quickly recovered.

The four-engine plane, one of 12 such Lockheed-built airliners owned by KLM, was bound from the Netherlands to Malaya with Europeans predominant among the 29 passengers and 7 crew members. KLM said no Americans were involved. The dead were 17 passengers and 3 crewmen.

A few hours later a Soviet TU104 jet liner blew out the tires of an undercarriage in landing at Cairo airport and careened into the sand. No one was hurt among the 20 persons aboard, but the airport was temporarily closed. Incoming planes were re-routed to Luxor or Alexandria.

The Electra had received landing clearance and was on an approach pattern over the desert when disaster struck. About three miles from the runway, the plane bounced off the crest of a dune and smashed down on another 300 yards away.

The landing gear was ripped away with the first impact. The air speed indicator in the wrecked cockpit registered 93 miles an hour.

India, Pakistan Dispute Kashmir

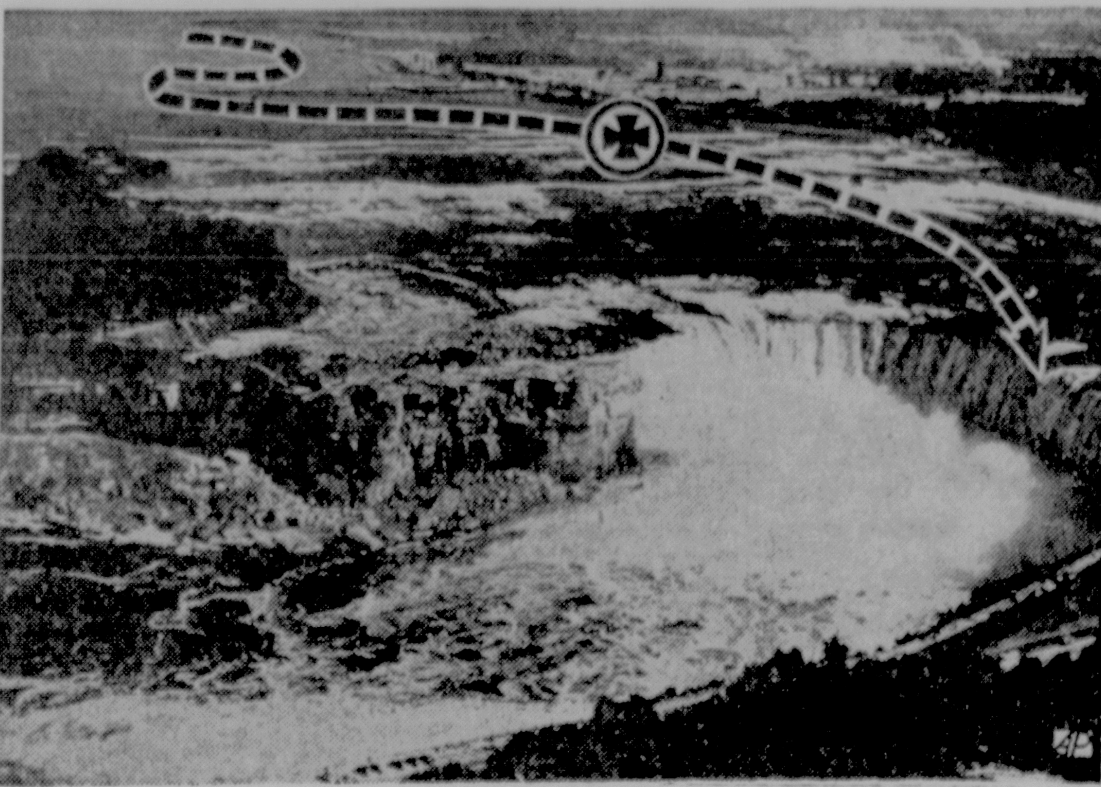

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—the dispute between India and Pakistan over the beautiful mountain state of Kashmir seems to have reached a new pitch of bitterness in Pakistan.

It is a bitterness born out of frustration. India holds the most important part of Kashmir. Pakistan's hopes of getting it once were optimistically alive.

From pessimism have sprung suggestions of desperation. The government of the part of Kashmir which Pakistan controls, along with Moslem political organizations, has been talking stirring up trouble in hopes of changing the unfavorable status quo.

To Aid School Bill

Lawrence Asks New Tax On Out-Of-State Bonds

HARRISBURG (AP) — (An adjournment-conscious legislature Monday heard Gov. Lawrence ask for new taxes to finance public education improvements in the 1961-62 school year.

The governor's remarks—delivered with emphasis and in a loud, clear voice—portrayed a sense of urgency for the assembly to avoid delay on passing a beefed-up, better-financed education program.

The governor proposed a six-mill tax on out-of-state personal property such as stocks, bonds and mortgages which would yield $27.5 million.

As an alternative, he suggested a 2 per cent levy on income from investments, such as dividends, which would raise $30.6 million. Democrats applauded the speech but Republicans attacked the tax proposals on the grounds they would put the full burden of paying for education programs on a few individuals.

"Either measure," said Lawrence, "recognizes the ability to pay, which surely deserves the consideration of us all."

But Republicans reacted sharply in opposition to the proposals. "If there is going to be equality of education opportunity in Pennsylvania, there should be equality of payment, that is, the payments should be spread out among the people getting the benefits instead of among one limited class," said Rep. Albert W. Johnson, House Republican floor leader.

Army Censures Gen. Walker In Attacks On Truman, Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army dealt Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker a relatively mild slap Monday for attributing Communist leanings to former President Harry S. Truman, other top Democrats and elements of the U.S. press, TV and radio.

Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said Walker was admonished "for taking injudicious actions and for making derogatory public statements about prominent Americans" while commanding the 24th Infantry Division in Germany.

Walker was reproved also for participating in certain controversial activities about which the Army refused to give details.

The Army said such admonitions are not intended as punishment but as "corrective measures." However, the Army said the significance of such a reproof in this case "is greatly increased by public announcement."

Uphold Contention
The Army in effect upheld Walker's contention that there was no link between the militantly conservative John Birch Society and the troop information program Walker put into effect in the 24th Division.

The statement issued at the Pentagon said the inquiry—ordered by President Kennedy—disclosed the troop information program "was not attributable to any program of the John Birch Society."

However, the Army canceled Walker's previously announced assignment to command the 8th Corps with headquarters in Austin, Tex. It gave the job to another general.

The nearly two-month investigation stemmed from charges published by the Overseas Weekly, a privately run tabloid newspaper

A tax on out-of-state stocks and bonds—called intangible personal property in legislative parlance—died in the Senate during the 1959 session.

It would have imposed a levy on such property at a rate of 6 mills, statewide. Counties now may levy up to 4 mills on such property.

The governor recommended that the same basic measure be enacted this year. He made no mention of whether special provisions for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia should be allowed, as in the 1959 proposal. The big city provisions drew the fire of many rural lawmakers.

Other legislative developments:
Sulcove — The Senate, after three weeks of delay, unanimously confirmed A. Allen Sulcove of Philadelphia as the state's new secretary of labor and industry.

Big Commotion In Men's Dorm Caused By Boa
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —That big commotion in a men's dormitory at Pennsylvania State University last weekend was generated by a four-foot-four boa constrictor placidly entwined about a steam pipe.

The snake's retreat was uncovered after officials and students in a zealous search, had ripped out a closet in quest of Billy the Boa.

Officials said the boa was "captured" in a weekend safari in the dormitory room of Richard J. Freedman of Philadelphia.

Freedman was consulted by telephone. He said he had bought Billy at a Philadelphia pet store to use as a visual aid in a speech course.

Billy was caged in the veterinary science research laboratory while negotiations continue between university officials and Freedman on Billy the Boa's future.

4 Die After Being Swept Over Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—Helpless and horrified, a crowd stood on the bank of the Niagara River as two couples in an outboard motorboat were swept relentlessly downstream in the rapids. Then the boat went under and the four were claimed by the thundering falls.

"One of the women in the crowd knelt down to pray," recalled Police Sgt. James Molloy Monday. "Everyone was stunned. There was nothing anyone could do."

All four in the boat were killed. They were George Stewart, 49, a druggist from Ridgeway, Ont.; his wife, Jean, 44, and Stanley, 60, and Gladys Tessman, 61, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Stewart's boat, the Pink Lady, was two miles upriver from the falls Sunday when trouble developed. The engine apparently went dead.

Heard Screaming
The Pink Lady, about 16 feet long, drifted downstream toward Horseshoe Falls. The current sucked it through a gate in the Ontario hydro control dam, which stretches more than halfway across the river from the Canadian side.

Molloy was about half a mile from the brink of the falls when he first saw the boat.

"I could hear a woman in the back of the boat screaming," he said. "A man was moving around in the boat as if he were trying to do something to turn it around."

"For a few seconds, it seemed to be going upriver. Then the current turned it sideways. It went over one drop and another. Then it disappeared under the water."

That was 100 yards upstream from the falls. Crowds of sightseers watched as boat seats tumbled over the brink, then the bodies of two women, one wearing red shorts and a blue blouse. It was about 8:10 p.m.

Fanfani, JFK Meet; Berlin Is Top Topic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani opened two days of Washington conferences with a call Monday at the State Department and a White House luncheon with President Kennedy.

The problem of Germany and Berlin was one of the prime topics of discussion. The German problem was brought to the fore over the weekend by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's renewed insistence on a peace treaty to end the Allied occupation of Berlin.

Italy comes into the picture as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Besides giving Fanfani a fill-in on his Vienna talks with Khrushchev, Kennedy also was expected to review with the Italian leader the pertinent points of his Paris meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle and his London talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Other matters under discussion among Fanfani, Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk included Italian aid to underdeveloped countries and the related subject of Italy's economic and political situation.

There are no major problems at the moment between Italy and the United States.

Fanfani, who arrived late Sunday, went to the White House after an hour and 45-minute session with Rusk at the State Department.

Okay Private School Transit

HARRISBURG (AP)—Publicly-supported school transportation for private school children was approved Monday by the House Rules Committee.

However, the extremely controversial proposal is expected to be buried in the appropriations committee.

The bill, sponsored by a group of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Democrats, would require any school board supplying transportation for public school children to do the same for the private schools.

This would not be necessary, however, if the private schools were operated for a profit.

West Is Angered By Violations Of Reds

GENEVA (AP) — The international conference on Laos got back to work Monday after a five-day recess caused by Western anger at Communist violations of the Laotian cease-fire. A new truce appeal was issued, but the atmosphere of the resumed session was still stormy.

A dispute erupted between the United States and the Soviet Union on reporting new violations to the conference. The Red Chinese then said they would never go along with the "dirty business" of close truce inspections in Laos. Delegates from Thailand walked out of the meeting to protest seating arrangements that left the royal Laotian government outnumbered 2-1.

West Appeals
Western diplomats sat down again with the Communists in the Palace of Nations. U.S. delegates had said they would only return when an effective cease-fire was assured in Laos. They settled for a renewed appeal from Britain and the Soviet Union for an end to the fighting, plus a report that neutral truce teams on the spot will be more active.

Western delegates boycotted the talks after the Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels captured a royal Laotian stronghold at Pading last Wednesday.

W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. delegate, threatened Monday to report any new violations to the 14-nation conference. He also disclosed that truce teams planned to begin visiting "sensitive areas." Earlier, the Pathet Lao had refused to guarantee their safety in rebel-held territory.

Tractor Exchange Group Hopes To See Fidel Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tractors-for-freedom group Monday completed arrangements for its trip to Cuba and hoped to see Prime Minister Fidel Castro personally Tuesday to work out a deal.

The Tractors-for-Freedom Committee of prominent U.S. citizens has offered 500 agricultural-type tractors in exchange for freedom for some 1,200 prisoners from the Cuban invasion. But it remained to be seen whether Castro would go along with this.

The pro-Communist prime minister, who originally suggested the swap, has been talking in terms of 500 monster tractors normally used for heavy construction jobs.

One of the four-man delegation of U.S. experts going to Havana, Prof. Roy Bainer of the University of California Agricultural Engineering Department, said before takeoff:

"Our only hope is that we can have an interview with Mr. Castro and that we can convince him that this (farm) tractor is the logical type."

The parent committee is headed by labor leader Walter P. Reuther, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the former President, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. It has authorized the four-man technical team only to work out details of an exchange in line with the committee's offer.

Golden, Union Founder, Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Clinton S. Golden, 72, one of the founders of the Steelworkers Union and a long-time expert in the labor-management field, died Monday at a convalescent home here.

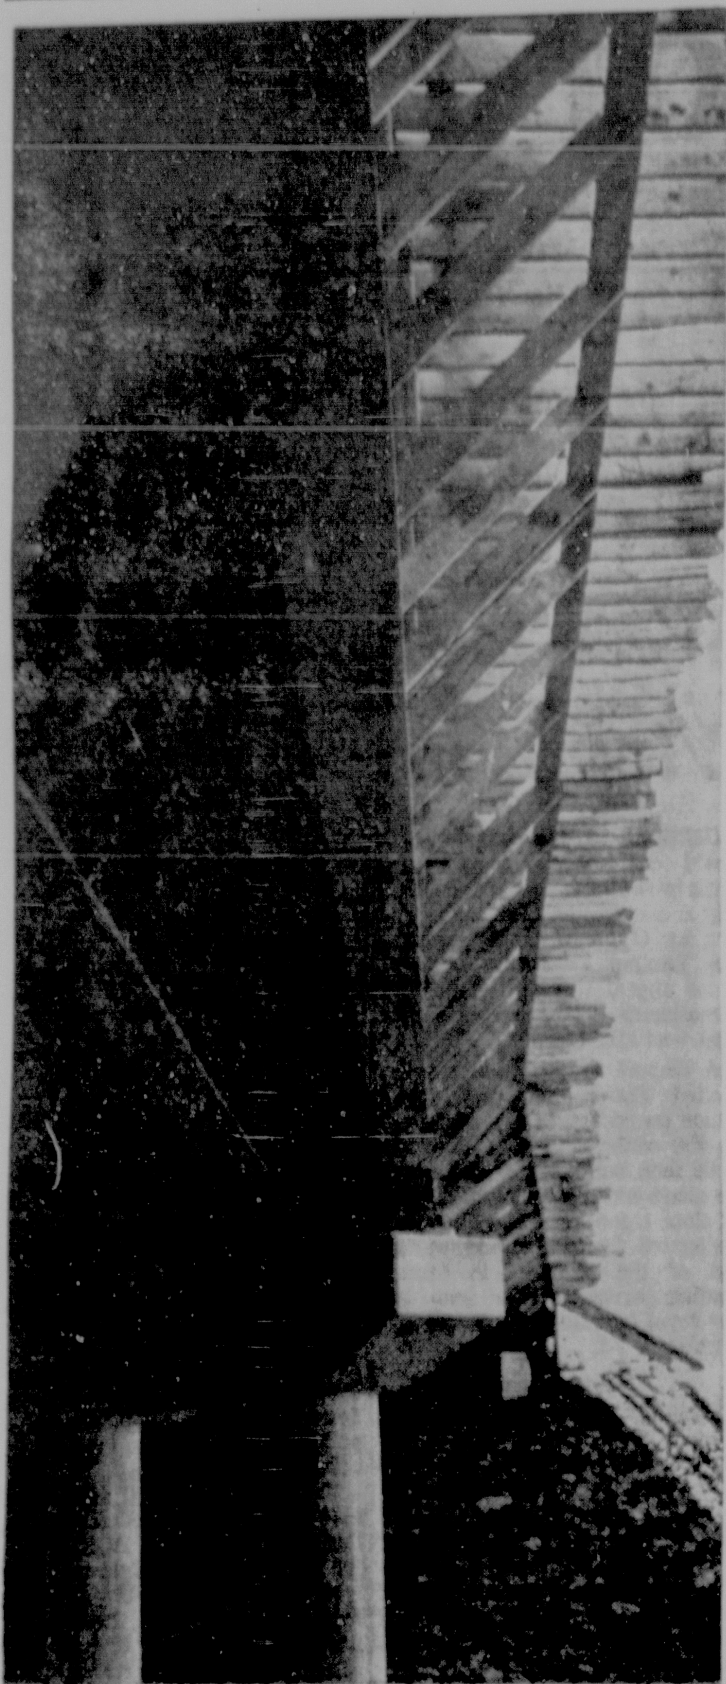

Golden suffered a stroke, his second, while making a speech to a steelworkers group at Beaver, Pa., about six weeks ago. He never completely regained consciousness.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is reported to have offered Golden the post of secretary of labor in 1953 when Martin Durkin resigned. Golden refused and the cabinet job went to James P. Mitchell.

At South Wayne Success Determined By Three Factors

NEWFOUNDLAND—"Your success will be determined by three factors," Dr. Benjamin DuVal, pastor of the Elm Park Methodist Church, Scranton, told the graduating class of Southern Wayne Joint School during the 45th annual commencement exercises in the school auditorium.

"These factors are the time in which you live; the breaks of the game; and your response to that time and opportunity."

"You must do something with your life," he continued. "Keep growing mentally and spiritually; put your mind in this business of living; and keep growing up. The things you want most in life will be yours if you love and serve others."

Dr. DuVal was preceded by three student speakers who used as their theme, "The United Nations Organization." Rita E. Madden, "Health and Social Progress," and Joan Mary Burdick, "World Peace."

The program opened with the professional by the high school wind ensemble directed by John Strupewski, and the invocation asked by the Rev. James Jeffers. Jean Mary Burdick gave the president's address.

J. David Holden, of Phillips-Zacharias-Phillips Post 859, American Legion, presented three awards from the post: to William Smith, outstanding boy in the senior class; Andrew Akers, outstanding athlete; and Jean Mary Burdick, an award in recognition of her contribution in forensic speaking. He also announced that the awards to the outstanding girl and boy in the ninth grade have been made this year to Shirley Smith and Larry Keiter.

Allegiance To Flag Is Urged

SAMUEL J. ZACCARO, exalted ruler of East Stroudsburg Elks 1,362, yesterday called for a community-wide renewal of allegiance to the Stars and Stripes on Flag Day, June 14.

"When we pledge allegiance to our flag, we acknowledge that ours is 'one nation, under God,' recognizing that we are endowed with freedom by our Creator," Zaccaro said. "We also recognize the Stars and Stripes as the symbol of true love of our fellowmen, and it is only through that love that the world can be saved from the destruction of nuclear warfare."

Zaccaro invited all citizens to join with the Elks on June 14 in a patriotically and spiritually inspired day of dedication to our flag and the great American heritage of freedom which it represents, a freedom which we hope all mankind will enjoy."

Daniel K. Gehris was appointed by the Elks leader a chairman of a committee to plan the lodge's Flag Day program, which will be open to the public. Also named to the committee were Rudolph Bliz, Russell Hoffman, Walter Olenick, Robert Banks, J. Joseph McCluskey, Nelson Westbrook, Franklin E. Weller and James Koppenhaver.

According to Zaccaro the East Stroudsburg Lodge will be among more than 1,500 Elks Lodges in all parts of the country paying tribute to the flag on the 154 anniversary of its adoption by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777. He said that the Elks have been observing Flag Day since 1908.

Cramer started to work for the bank in July of 1930, following his graduation from East Stroudsburg High School.

During his 41 years of banking he has served as a messenger, file clerk, bookkeeper, teller and in the note department.

In 1947 he was elected assistant cashier and appointed cashier in 1949. It was at this time he began working with the late Russell E. Jones, who was at that time executive vice president. Mr. Jones was the first man to hold the office of executive vice president.

When he first began working in the bank there were five employees on the staff. The present number of employees in the bank now is 27. He has also seen the bank grow from $900,000 to the present $10,750,000 institution.

"Grand People" Cramer said, "I must admit that 41 years is a long time but it has passed very quickly. It has always been my good fortune to work with grand people."

He spoke of a recent redecoration that has taken place in the bank in the past year. "In addition to the new look inside the bank and the outside we will have a parking lot, with space for 20 cars, and also a drive-in window to better serve our customers."

Three ESSC Qualify For WAC College

THREE women students at East Stroudsburg State College have qualified for and been accepted to enroll in the new four-week Women's Army Corps College Junior Summer Training Program.

The students, Miss Suzanne M. Somers, 835 Grove St., Stroudsburg; Miss Nancy A. Mitchell, 32 Wetmore St., Wellsboro, and Miss Mary A. Kirka, 729 E. Morton St., Bethlehem, will participate in this program which offers them a preview of their possible future careers as women Army officers.

They will receive training and scholastic education and will see for themselves, not only the career opportunities available to women Army officers, but also observe the living conditions, social and recreational facilities, and other facets of Army life. For these four weeks of their time, these women will receive a month's salary and have all their expenses of travel, food, lodgings and uniforms paid for by the U. S. Army.

In order to qualify, for this class which admits only 75 women from throughout the entire United States, Misses Kirka, Mitchell and Somers had to qualify mentally, physically, morally and prove their capacity for leadership and supervisory functions.

Miss Somers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Somers, 835 Grove St., Stroudsburg.

Official Ceremonies

In official ceremonies conducted at the U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station in Wilkes-Barre, the cadets were given their oath of enlistment by the commanding officer, Capt. Chalmers L. Fennell, with 1st Lt. Rhoda M. Hevner, recruiting officer, and SFC Donald K. Smith, Stroudsburg Army recruiter, in attendance. Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served.

The three young women will depart for Fort McClellan, Ala., where the WAC Center is located, on July 29, returning the last week of August. If these young women like this glimpse of Army life, they will have the unique opportunity to apply for direct commissions as second lieutenants in the U. S. Army during their senior year of college and will be ordered to active duty following graduation.

If they decide not to apply, they have no further obligation to do so. Those women who do enter the commission program will be able to choose the career field for which their education and experience has trained them.

In announcing the selection of these young women, SFC Smith said he was proud to have three of the 75 cadets being enrolled from a local college. He extended his hope that more young women will apply for this course in the summer of 1962.

SAAB car owners never get stuck with these repair bills

Swedish SAAB is beautifully engineered to go on and on, year after year, without major repair

Did you know SAAB eliminates the whole network of valves, oil pipes, fittings and filters? Instead, a fine oil mist sprays vital moving parts directly. The SAAB engine has 103 fewer points of abrasion and wear—103 places where things can't go wrong! Another SAAB distinction is the Front Wheel Drive. It does away with the drive shaft, the hump on the floor, and gives SAAB its exceptional traction in snow, mud, rain. SAAB has other happy surprises: extra heavy gauge steel for safety; the driving ease of a compact that will not shake or sway even at speeds of over 70 MPH; more passing power than comparable imports. And you get all this in a stylish 5-passenger compact in the under $2,000 range!

Desirable Rates

During recessions there is usually full agreement with the official Democratic position for low interest rates. Most everyone is for the idea of encouraging business borrowing to keep the wheels of commerce spinning.

Actually, such concurrence really isn't necessary. The law of supply and demand functions well enough to ease the rate for borrowers, if any, during a slump.

The Federal Reserve Board, for one, has cooperated with the Kennedy administration. But now borrowing demands are increasing along with the signs of business recovery. As a matter of course, the interest trend will be upward as demand for funds grow.

If the Reserve Board moves according to its traditional policy, it will "lean against the wind" to ward off inflationary threats.

But such a move would also be against President Kennedy's desire for continued downward pressure on interest rates all the time. In his address to Congress May 25, the President said it would be "clearly desirable" to point the direction of interest rates to lower levels.

Reserve Board Chairman Martin told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress that there is quite a bit of difference between what is "clearly desirable" and what is likely to happen in prosperous times.

Mr. Martin testified, as he has many times in the past, that the Federal Reserve System can do little to stop rates from going up. All it can do, he said, is to try to "moderate" the trend.

Of course, this won't satisfy some Democratic congressmen who want rates to be artificially controlled, or "pegged," regardless of demand. This definitely would be an undesirable course.

Opinions Of Other Editors

More Jobs But More Job Hunters

More employment but also relatively more unemployment. That again is the substance of the United States Labor Department report on employment for May. It is the sixth straight month that unemployment has stayed close to seven per cent of the national labor force.

This is too high. And for too long. Business activity is improving; but as predicted, reemployment lags until people on part time are put back on full time. After that, the question still will be whether new jobs open up any faster than new workers come into the labor market.

Employment rose by a million between mid-April and mid-May. But this was only a normal springtime change, and left the total still below May a year ago. Seasonally adjusted, the percentage of unemployment moved up from 6.8 to 6.9.

Under these circumstances adverse attention begins to be called to technological change which replaces workers with machines. Years ago machines began to take the place of muscle power.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

West Germany

It is easy for an advertising man to write a sensational advertisement. It takes no great skill. When one sees a lot of swastikas, it attracts attention immediately. Such a title as "Will There Be a Fourth Reich?" is fetching. Immediately one thinks of Hitler and gets excited.

So when in "The New York Times" Book Review, I saw such a combination of unpleasantness in an advertisement I looked further.

It seems that John Dornberg is the uncoover of "Major General Edwin A. Walker's alleged attempt to indoctrinate American troops in the principles of the John Birch Society." So says the advertisement of the publisher.

Mr. Dornberg is also advertised as the News Editor of the Overseas Weekly where General Walker was exposed. General Walker has now become a person in controversy, which only means that he is talked about pro and con.

So, we are back to the question as to what crime, felony or misdemeanor, General Walker committed. The man should be court-martialed if he committed a crime. If he is only a nuisance because of Left Wing embarrassment, the Defense Department should say that it is its policy to slay every officer who becomes unpalatable to the Left Wingers or to any other effective pressure group.

The advertisement of Dornberg's book goes on to say that "over 40,000 German youths belong to para - military groups." In front of this statement is a swastika, the emblem of the Nazi. Are we therefore to assume that the MacMillian Company knows that all the 40,000 are Nazis or is the swastika there only to attract attention?

Then the advertisement, also with a swastika as a forerunner. He says:

"... there may be an underground ring - operating with the tacit co - operation of German authorities - to help ex - Nazis escape trial and arrest."

This is an offensive statement about one of the nations most friendly to the United States. Are there Americans in Germany who are working clandestinely to overthrow the government of Chancellor Adenauer?

Do we have an American Fifth Column in West Germany, as there was one to help Castro, as there were Americans in the Caribbean to destroy Trujillo, using the radio station "Dawn" to do the job?

Congress, incidentally, might investigate that station to discover what precisely it has done during the past year and what it has cost the American taxpayer and how offensive it is to our neighbors.

The advertisement in "The New York Times" also with a swastika announces that "as many as 685 anti - Semitic incidents have been officially recorded in one month alone." Anyone who has followed the news at all knows how actively Chancellor Adenauer has been fighting anti - Semitism in West Germany.

It must be noted that the Communist movement is now universally anti - Semitic; that Soviet Russia is officially anti-Semitic, placing serious limitations upon all Jews. It is to be expected therefore that wherever Communists are at work, they will stimulate anti - Semitism if they can.

In Germany, West and East, it is normal that vestiges of anti-Semitism should continue to exist. Such a colossal propagandistic effort as Hitler and Goebbels let loose upon the German people will not disappear in a generation. It will die slowly.

The question that is paramount is whether the West German Government is anti-Semitic. Chancellor Adenauer has proved that he and his government are not only not anti - Semitic but their relations with Israel have been excellent.

As long as the West German Government battles against anti-Semitism, those who are opposed to anti - Semitism must regard Adenauer as a friend. This has been the attitude of David Ben - Gurion, Israel's Prime Minister.

The question that arises is what can be the purpose of such an advertisement as I have described. Of course, principally the object is to sell a book. But the advertisement reads as though it were important to attack West Germany and to break down the regime of Chancellor Adenauer.

What American can have that as a motive? What can be the purposes of such a statement? Only the Communists would be antagonistic to West Germany; only the Communists would want to give Chancellor Adenauer a bad reputation in the world.

Therefore, one wonders at all these swastika marks in an advertisement. Is the ghost of Hitler to be revived to confound us? And by whom?

Puts Self On Spot

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Governor Lawrence unquestionably laid his gubernatorial noggin on the line yesterday when in an unusual plea to a joint House - Senate session he urged legislative action on the far-flung recommendations of his special education study committee.

Educators and just plain lay people interested in seeing Pennsylvania's overall education program beefed up, modernized, streamlined and literally made second to none, are keeping their fingers crossed.

Political strategists on both sides of the aisle, whose chore and task it is to assess a move such as that made by Mr. Lawrence yesterday — in light of a plus or minus political strategem — are equally possessed with crossed fingers, but for different reasons of course.

Legislative leaders have been driving toward final adjournment after having been in session for nearly six months. The Lawrence Administration has been well aware of this. Legislative strategy when the Governor's Office formally announced the gubernatorial intent to address the joint session.

Since then, interestingly, hardly a day went by that there weren't some fairly "authentic leaks" to news media as to just what the Governor would have to say in his appearance.

Significantly, the education story and the Governor's then upcoming legislative appearance pretty well showed the hateful deficit story into the background.

In other words, yesterday's move a smokescreen? "Absurd" — utterly, utterly absurd, — retort gubernatorial aides to such a suggestion!

The salient fact is however that in yesterday's move, Mr. Lawrence — whether he relishes it or not — has put himself in the unenviable position of going all - out for a highly controversial, politically explosive, highly partisan (ideologically speaking) issue.

Will his prestige and standing as Governor, his top rank as a political old pro of the first water, be adequate to push through his wishes as espoused yesterday in his lay - it - on - the - line move?

Can he pull together enough loose ends within his own legislative ranks to back his urgings — to say nothing of those in GOP anti - administration ranks? Tempers are short and testy after six months of haggling and sessioning. The mood has been to drive for adjournment.

Mr. Lawrence's plea unquestionably comes somewhat belatedly. Significantly though, it will be indicative of his current running status — plus or minus.

fashion. Such strategy is developed jointly between an administration and the administration's legislative leadership.

Thus Mr. Lawrence could hardly be classified as having been in the dark insofar as legislative plans were concerned. In fact he is as much a part and parcel of legislative strategy as administrative legislative leaders themselves.

Why then the delay — the waiting until this late date — to strike up the sudden drive for legislative consideration of the recommendations contained in the education report? The handwriting was on the wall long before this.

There is of course the fact that it was only last week that the administration conceded publicly that Pennsylvania — alas — once again had wound up the two - year fiscal period May 31 in hock to the tune of more than $33 million, notwithstanding the Governor's earlier adamant insistence that one of the hallmarks of his administration would be no deficit financing!

Coincidentally (of course) it was just a puff and snort after the deficit was revealed that the Governor's Office formally announced the gubernatorial intent to address the joint session.

Since then, interestingly, hardly a day went by that there weren't some fairly "authentic leaks" to news media as to just what the Governor would have to say in his appearance.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

A friend of mine jokingly asked yesterday why we don't publicize the failures when referring to school graduations.

He points out that everyone who receives an award, diploma gets his or her name in print. But the poor souls who fail to make the grade are left out of the picture.

Only school officials and the individual involved know of the trials and tribulations of the one who missed making the scholastic grade.

Well our feeling in the matter is the same as the person who doesn't like to hit a man when he's down. When the so-called flunker missed the boat he had enough problems. Facing his friends, family and relatives was enough bad publicity for the lad or lass. Why persecute him further?

This is a ticklish situation as our fun-loving pal would like us not to believe. It is a very serious matter and needs handling with the tact of a general in the field of battle.

While some of the failures go through life running against the same "can't make it stone wall," others have shown that a short stop on the trail only served as a launching pad for greater achievements.

This is one situation where we would like to leave well enough alone. After all we are sure the ones noted in the web would prefer to be alone to think out their next moves.

Graduation time, sorrowfully we feel, is the only time of the year when the parents come out en masse to see their loved ones get the parchment of scholastic success after 12 years of book work.

It's too bad that many of these people didn't see fit to attend more school affairs during the academic seasoning of their offspring.

It's too bad that many of these people didn't see fit to attend more school affairs during the academic seasoning of their offspring.

We imagine closer ties between parent and children would have prevailed when diploma time came around.

Delays Test Ban End

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Kennedy is taking two highly significant steps on the thorny problem of resuming nuclear tests:

At the urgent request of Prime Minister Macmillan, the President is "delaying" an immediate change in the 2 1/2 - year - old suspension of such tests. The British government leader personally asked this be done in his talk with the president following the latter's two - day meeting with Premier Khrushchev in Vienna.

In the near future, the President will announce that this country "no longer feels morally bound by the self - imposed moratorium against (underground) test." At the same time, the U.S. has no intention of breaking off the Geneva nuclear arms control parity.

What effect such a declaration will have is conjectural.

In the U.S., it would prepare the way for resuming subterranean tests in the fall. Work on that has been underway at the Macmillan told the President that a change in U.D. policy on nuclear tests at this time would have profound adverse repercussions in Britain. The Prime Minister stressed the strong anti-nuclear weapons sentiment now prevailing there.

Because of this explosive political situation, which directly affects U.S. nuclear-armed ballistic missiles and nuclear-powered POLARIS submarines, the President agreed to "delay making an immediate change" in policy on further nuclear tests. Also to consult Macmillan before any new action is taken.

However, the President also informed Macmillan that, in the hope of prodding the Soviet to be less unyielding at the long-stymied Geneva conference, he intends to proclaim that the U.S. "no longer feels morally bound" to continue its voluntary test ban.

What effect such a declaration will have is conjectural.

Inside You And Yours

Without Support

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

Mother had riches, but no support!

Those strong muscles supporting her pelvic organs had stretched when she gave birth. Now she had triple trouble — cystocele, rectocele and fallen womb.

These supporting muscles normally form a large funnel with three separate openings — the bladder's passage, the birth canal and the intestine. All three organs are supported by this strong muscular funnel.

Because each passage curves, no weight pushes down through any openings. But when difficult deliveries or repeated births stretch this funnel it droops, allowing every organ to push into the birth canal.

Triple Trouble
The bladder pushes from the front (cystocele) while the intestine bulges from in back (rectocele). And the womb sinks straight down, sometimes to the outside world!

Straining no longer empties bladder or intestine. Each merely bulges further into the birth canal. Every cough and sneeze squeezes fresh drops down the drain, while germs swim upstream to frolic in and infect the never - empty bladder.

Thickened womb lining triggers a painful, irregular menstrual flow. Babies stop arriving. Even those that begin to grow are soon lost.

The back aches and bottom drags as the womb tips backward and supporting muscles sag.

Like a tailor, the surgeon tightens sagging muscles and takes up the slack. He anchors the birth canal just beneath the front pelvic bones where no organ can push down into it. The doctor may prescribe a special spring - like ring to support the sagging organs before surgery.

Some Aids
Resting flat in bed immediately after giving birth takes the stress and strain off the muscular funnel and lets it tighten. Later, your doctor may advise you to kneel on the bed and bend forward until chest and shoulders touch the mattress. Pelvic organs now swing into position, while extra blood flow tones up sagging muscle fibers.

Upside - down exercises and rightside - up surgery can usually guarantee the poorest mother good support!

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Having made a solemn vow after last winter's sub-zero snows and the cold wet Spring, I can't complain about yesterday's weather. Except I might mention casually that if you had wrung out the whole editorial force we could have launched a boat last night in the editorial room.

Besides, there wasn't much time to brood about the heat. Ordinarily, once past the weekend weddings, June is a comparatively peaceful month, but not this year. The calendar is bustling out all over with all sorts of activities.

The music festival at Tamiment with the Curtis String Quartet, some of whom live on Franklin Hill, with the art show at the Village Inn on Saturday, and the opening of the Pocono Playhouse are among the things which should keep us culturally up to par.

If, that is, we can stop at the strawberry festival on the way to the performance and take in a picnic or two along the way. I can't figure out whether you all took too many vitamins this winter or whether I'm just getting to the stage where I get out of breath trying to keep up to you.

Anyway you're a real ambitious group. Please don't use up all your energy all at once. We've still got July and August to get through, remember.

FOUNDER OF THE FEAST—Host pro Sam Kinder of the Water Gap Country Club tones up before teeing off in yesterday's Pocono Professional Golf Association Tournament held at the Water Gap Club. Kinder came in third.

Chimienti 1st In PPGA Meet At Water Gap Club Monday

JOHN CHIMIENTI, powerful Shawnee Inn golf professional, and an ailing Ted Bickel of Harkers Hollow Country Club, of Phillipsburg, N.J., shared first place in the Pocono Professional Golf Association Tournament at Water Gap Country Club Monday with one-under-par 71s.

Chimienti, who missed qualifying for the National Open last week by two strokes, had nine hole scores of 37 and 34, and Bickel, who has been in bed for the past week with a virus, put together sides of 37 and 34.

Four players, including Bickel and Chimienti, tied the association nine hole mark of 34. Bob Paluzzi, Towanda Country Club, and Sam Kinder of Water Gap, had 34 on the backside, which matches Kinder's and Yanovitch's PPGA record set last year at Harkers Hollow. Kinder and Paluzzi shared third place in the pro division with one-over-par 73s on the 6,440-yard layout. Two teams shared first place in the pro-amateur division. Vince Yanovitch, Tanniment pro, and Amateur Curt Prins had seven-under-par 65s, as did Dick Smith of Indian Mountain Golf Club, and Amateur Sherwood Case. Both Prins and Case are of Water Gap Country Club.

There were four ties for third place, all teams having 66. They were Chimienti and amateur Fred Leffingwell of Miami, Florida; Mike Megargle and amateur Harry Evans of Pocono Manor; Kinder and amateur Don Abbott of Water Gap Country Club; and Bob Kidd, Elmhurst, and amateur Joe Mesko also of Elmhurst.

Leffingwell, who plans to play the Professional Golfers Association of America circuit as an amateur, had a scratch 73, the best amateur round.

It was Chimienti's second straight in-the-money finish in PPGA events. Last week at Tanniment he tied for second with 77.

He had three birds and two bogeys on his card, including a bogey on the opening hole. Bickel, who left his sick bed only this morning, did not have a birdie on the front side, but bogied the second hole, a long three-par.

The Phillipsburg, New Jersey pro had two birds on the backside for his 71. He explained his success by saying that he was "too weak to hit the ball off line."

Kinder, the defending champ at Water Gap, having won last year with a 73, bogied the first hole and took a double-bogey five on the second hole, which included a self-imposed one-stroke penalty when his ball moved as he attempted to chip it to the green. He finished with a 39 on the front side, but came back strongly with 34 on the back.

Paluzzi also had 39-34 for his first in-the-money finish in two years of PPGA play. Fourteen pro competed in the event, one less than the record of 15 set last year at Shawnee Inn.

Liston Nabbed By Police In Pre-Dawn Auto Chase

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Top heavyweight contender Sonny Liston was slugged Monday with what may have been the knock-out blow to his hopes for a championship fight—a charge that he impersonated a policeman.

It was the latest in a long series of brushes with the law for Liston, 28, a native of St. Louis who now lives in and fights out of Philadelphia. He has served time for robbery and for assault of a policeman.

This incident came only a few weeks after he had changed managers after two men stopped Mrs. Dolores Ellis, 29, of suburban Lansdowne, as she drove through the lonely reaches of Fairmount Park before dawn.

She said Liston and Isaac Cooper, 26, had been trailing her in another car for some time. She said they finally drew abreast of her vehicle, shined a spotlight on it and ordered her to stop.

One of the men, she related, ordered her out of her car but before she could reply, park guard policeman, John Warburton drove up.

Warburton said the two men dashed back into their car and sped off. He caught them after a half-mile chase and fired a warning shot when Cooper tried to run away. Liston, he said, sat calmly behind the wheel.

Mrs. Ellis said she was under the impression she had been halted by police.

She and the two men are Negroes.

Liston's manager, George Katz, posted bail of $300 each for the accused. They also were charged with conspiracy and with turning off the headlights of their automobile—owned by Liston—while Warburton was chasing them.

Katz, who does virtually all the talking for Liston, said his fighter had meant no harm and that the incident was a "lark" originated by Cooper.

Liston started his ring career as the rehabilitation project of a prison chaplain and a sports writer who saw a chance for a young man to box his way to a successful life.

Chicago Squeaks Past Orioles, 9-8

BALTIMORE (AP)—Roy Sievers and Al Smith powered the Chicago White Sox to a 9-8 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Monday night in a 25-hit slugfest.

Sievers, continuing his assault on Oriole pitchers, slugged two homers and a double, driving in three runs. Smith knocked in two runs with a homer and two singles.

In the second game of Sunday's doubleheader, Sievers also had three RBIs as he rapped out four hits.

The Orioles scored four runs in the third inning and took a 5-1 lead, but Chicago came right back with five runs in the top of the fourth and went in front 6-5.

Smith's 12th homer leading off the eighth completed the Chicago scoring and enabled him to equal his entire 1960 home run output.

Yanks Whip LA To Nab 2nd Place

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, shut out on two singles for five innings, came from behind with three runs in the sixth for a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Monday night and moved into second place in the American League race behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Stafford.

It was the 11th victory in 12 games for the Yankees, who closed a 10-1 home stand with a five-game winning streak that put them .004 percentage points ahead of idle Detroit.

Southpaw Ted Bowsfield (2-2) was the loser, giving up four hits in the sixth inning. Tony Kubek opened the rally with a single, his first hit in four games after running up a 19-game streak.

Stafford, winning his fourth in a row for a 4-2 record, didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning. Stafford, a young right-hander, walked just two and struck out seven for his third complete game—the seventh by the Yankee staff in the last 12 games.

Distributes Land

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah of Iran distributed 4,547 hectares — 11,237 acres — of crown land among 2,180 peasant families Sunday in a ceremony at Babolair in the Caspian Sea area. The Iranian monarch now has distributed three-fourths of his lands among 32,969 peasants.

Premier Ali Amini is planning to carry out a program to distribute state-owned land among peasants and enforce a new land reform bill under which big land ownership will be restricted.

For IOC Change

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia will try to broaden the definition of amateur when the International Olympic Committee meets in Athens June 16-21.

The Soviet delegation will suggest that amateur status be granted all competitors who do not use their sport as a means of earning a living.

The IOC's present definition of an amateur is "one who participates in sport solely for pleasure... without material gain of any kind."

When a boy or girl completes the last club, "Shark," they are able to swim a quarter-mile without stopping, use all swimming strokes, do some fancy diving. They have passed 51 stunts and will be well qualified for a Life Saving course.

The same swimming program is carried on at the Y day camps for both boys and girls. They get instructions each day at camp plus a large variety of other activities.

The arts and crafts program at the camps will include: building bird houses from poplite sticks, plaster of paris molds, learning how to make leaf-prints and animal track molds with plaster of paris and some leather craft in the form of making change purses and comb-cases.

Some activities for boys 10 and older will include canoe trip down Delaware, riflery and archery.

The Stay at Home Camp for boys and girls takes place at the 'Y' and is run for the 5-6-7 year old age groups. For further information call the 'Y' HA 1-2325.

More than 800 students received bachelor degrees and 74 were awarded master's degrees by Very Rev. John A. Klekotka, OSA, Dr. Sc., president of Villanova, at the commencement exercises.

The main address was given by Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston.

First Novel Is Published

LONDON (AP)—Bryan Edgar Wallace is in London for the publication of his first novel, a thriller he hopes is in the tradition of his father, Edgar Wallace.

"If I'm successful, I'll go on writing novels," he said. "If not I'll turn my writing in another direction."

Before World War II he tried writing plays—"I think they were too serious and didn't make it."

Dear Abby

Subtle, And Most Effective

Dear Abby: About a year ago my husband started bringing a woman home from his office to do extra work. Then he asked me to make the bed into a bedroom for her as he thought it was dangerous for her to drive home alone at night. I did this, thinking it would last only a little while. Now the woman is making her home with us. She bosses the children around, and has practically taken over my house. My husband said she is smart and I should listen to her ideas. Last night when he suggested I take the children and spend the summer with my parents (600 miles away), I realized I had been a big fool. Abby, I want that woman out of my house. I love my husband and don't want to lose him. What excuse can I use?

TOO TRUSTING

Dear Trusting: You don't need an "excuse"—you have good reasons. Without pointing an accusing finger, tell your husband you want that woman OUT of your home immediately. Don't threaten him, and don't make a scene. Explain that it is your love for him and your family that makes it impossible to tolerate a "live-in" guest at your home.

Dear Abby: Won't you please say something about people who buy birds as pets and mistreat them? I have actually had people say to me, "Our canary fell in the dishwater and was drowned." Or, "Our parakeet flew into the open fireplace and got burned up." Or, "The cat

Coolbaugh Firemen Set Up Program

AT THE June meeting of the Coolbaugh Township Fire Company recently, ad hoc determination was put behind the summer program now in effect.

Joseph Eck, president, was pleased by the rapid sale of tickets for the annual carnival which will take place the week of July 10 at the firehouse grounds in Tobyhanna.

Among invitations at the carnival this year will be a $2000 cash prize to be given away, as well as pony rides for the youngsters and shooting galleries for the older segment.

Due to the large number of recruits, discussion was held about increasing drills to once a week rather than the current monthly practices.

The ambulance corps was praised, having made six calls the last month, and having been instrumental in saving a life where speed was necessary. Ambulance dues of three dollars may be sent to the corps secretary, George J. Rosenberg, of Tobyhanna.

Members of the fire company who have not attended meetings and do not answer calls will be dropped from the rolls, unless they report for company functions.

A new and more effective fire alarm system has been installed in the fire house to facilitate the locating of fires.

The Ladies Auxiliary and the fire company have been holding joint meetings to make plans to serve the best food possible at the carnival.

Red Party Defies Court

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Communist party, trumpeting defiance of a Supreme Court mandate to make public its membership lists, says it would not comply in any way with the ruling, claiming it outlaws the party in the United States.

Udall Seeks More Coal Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said yesterday one of his fondest wishes is to see the department assist in achieving a breakthrough to increased use of coal, to help depressed coal areas.

Udall spoke to the General Technical Advisory Committee of the Office of Coal Research.

John M. Kelly, assistant secretary of the interior for mineral resources told the committee the department wants to push the research program where it can see the most immediate effect in the depressed areas.

George A. Lamb, director of the new Office of Coal Research, said the most important criteria in awarding initial research contracts will be the extent to which the project would possibly increase the project would possibly increase the tonnage demand for coal.

He said some 60 proposals for research projects have been received. He estimated that about $1.9 million, including funds carried over from this fiscal year, will be available for the research program during the year beginning July 1.

Unregistered Stock

By William A. Doyle

Q. About six months ago I received some stock which was not registered with the Securities & Exchange Commission. Stamped on the certificate is the following notation: "This stock cannot be transferred or sold until registered with the SEC or unless a 'no action' letter is obtained from the SEC."

A. There is no time limit before a person can sell unregistered stock, such as six months or 13 months? How does one go about obtaining a "no action" letter?

A. To even begin to understand this complicated situation, we have to spell out some of the background.

Most stock which is owned by the public and is traded (either on a stock exchange or in the over-the-counter market) has been registered with the SEC at one time or another.

That registration took place when the issuer (the company) or a controlling person (a really big stockholder) sold the stock. Some relatively small offerings of stock are exempt from registration but must meet certain SEC requirements.

American Legion To Put Emphasis On Flag Day

COMMANDER Edward T. Hoak, of the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania, has asked the officers and members of the 942 Legion Posts in the state to place special emphasis on the observance of Flag Day, this year.

In making this request, Commander Hoak cited the importance of June 14 to the citizens

In general, all stock sold by an issuer or a controlling person cannot be offered for sale to the public unless it is registered.

Nevertheless, there are situations in which stock is owned by individuals even though that stock has never been registered with the commission. More often than not, this stock will be owned by the founders who organized a company or by employees who received the stock from the company. It should be pointed out right here that, in most cases, the stocks involved in employee option and purchase plans are covered by registrations. But there are exceptions.

When unregistered stock is sold privately (not in a general offering to the public) the buyer takes it as an investment and not with the idea of reselling.

Unregistered stock is always supposed to be held as an investment. The SEC will jump with both feet on anybody who takes unregistered stock as an investment and then tries to peddle it at a profit. It amounts to having "frozen assets."

There is no set time limit on holding such stock. In past cases, the commission has opposed the sale of unregistered stock after only a six-month holding period. Because there is no firm time limit, the whole situation often becomes quite vague and extra complicated. It is possible, under certain circumstances, to get a "no action" letter — thereby freeing unregistered stock for sale.

But the SEC looks at each case of unregistered stock individually. Anyone who owns unregistered stock and who hopes to sell it should contact the commission and explain the circumstances involved in his case.

Q. I would like to exchange some old Series E, U.S. savings bonds, for some Series H bonds. How should I go about it?

A. Any banking or other institution, qualified to redeem E bonds has also been authorized by the U.S. Treasury Department to accept subscriptions from owners of E bonds who wish to exchange those bonds for H bonds.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Workmen's Compensation Bureau Monday mailed checks totaling $357,687 to occupational disease recipients. The checks had been delayed since June 6.

Witness' Home Is Ransacked

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Burglars over the weekend ransacked the offices of Eli G. Travis construction firms.

Travis is the principal witness in an investigation of a gift-giving scandal involving city employees.

Police Saturday reported burglars emptied filing cabinets and desks in five partitioned offices of the Travis firms.

Detectives first said they thought the burglars were seeking something in particular. Later, when it was learned office machines and other items were missing a detective said "this might possibly be just a burglary unconnected with the probe."
